The joining of forces by Arseus Medical and Pro-Motion Medical represents a starting point for the expansion of a unique platform for orthopaedic devices in the Low Countries.

As a leading distributor of medical equipment and consumables and supplier of services to the medical sector, Arseus Medical is taking an important new step in its growth ambitions, through the acquisition of Pro-Motion Medical bv, a Dutch distributor of innovative medical products for orthopaedics and traumatology

Pro-Motion Medical (www.pro-motionmedical.nl) was founded in 2004 by Evert-Jan Van der Kamp, who gradually expanded the company with the help of Dutch company Katapult Healthcare, with the aim of providing healthcare providers with the right tools that would enable patients to regain optimal movement after fracture or trauma.

- Walter Raes, CEO Arseus Medical: 'With the acquisition of Pro-Motion Medical, we can combine together Arseus Medical's knowledge and its range of offerings relating to orthopaedic devices - already strengthened with innovative solutions for the hand and foot chiropractic through the acquisition of eXmedical in 2019 - with those of Pro-Motion Medical, and to jointly take it to the next level as a whole, namely by offering a unique know-how and product platform in the Benelux in the field of human support and locomotor apparatus. We are also very pleased that Evert-Jan, as driving force behind Pro-Motion Medical, will remain on board as partner and expert to realise this with us.'
- Xavier Deklerck, Managing Director eXmedical: 'With this additional knowledge and experience on board with regard to devices that specifically remedy disorders of the upper and lower extremities, hip and pelvis, we are taking a significant step forward in positioning Arseus Medical group as a leading distributor of innovative medical devices.'
- Evert-Jan Van der Kamp, founder and Managing Director, Pro-Motion Medical: 'Our motto has always been: "Not the biggest, but the best." Since its foundation in 2004, Pro-Motion Medical has grown into a major player thanks to the exclusive cooperation with the best partners in orthopedics and traumatology and the combination of the tremendous commitment and unique knowledge of our entire team. Our creativity, authenticity and tremendous drive to continue innovating and to always strive to improve materials as well as techniques in the interest of the patient is what Pro-Motion Medical is recognised and acknowledged for. We are delighted to have found in the collaboration with Arseus Medical the appropriate strategic partner, which will enable us to continue to build on this mission and get even more people moving again.'
